The only women who are permitted to wear trousers in France are Rosa Bonheur, Mme. Diculator, the Parisian archaelogist, Mme. Foucault, the bearded woman, and the feminine stonecutters. For this privilege they are taxed from $10 to $12 a year. No woman, however, may wear tronsers by paying the tax. On the contrary, the government only confers the privilege on great merit. Trousers are,

Weary and Worn.

When the tired factory operative, the weary out-door laborer, the overtasked book-keeper or clerk seeks a medical recompense for expenditure of bodily force, where shall he find it? Could the recorded experience of thousands of workers be voiced, the verdict would be that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters renews failing strength, stimulates the jaded mectal powers to fresh activity, and relaxes undue nervous tension as nothing else does. Digestion, a regular habit of body, appetite and sleep are promoted by it, and it is an admirable auxiliary in the recovery of health by convalescents. A fastidious stomach is not offended by it, and to persons of both sexes in delicate health who occasionally feel the need of an efficient tonic, the whole range of the pharmacopæia and the estalogue of proprietary medicines does not present a more useful, safer or more decisive one. It is also incomparable for fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles.

Dr. Theodore R. Timby, the inventor of the turbine wheel, is now living in Chicago. At 72 years of age he is as hale and active as most men of 50. Dr. Timby is a native of Dutchess county, New York,

There is one medicine which every family should be provided with. We refer th Chamberlain's Pain Balm. When it is kept at hand a severe pain of a burn or scald may be promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention, before the parts become swollen, and when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied it will heal them without matter being formed, and without leaving a scar. A sore throat may be cured in one night. A piece of flannel damped with this linament and bound on over the seat of pain, will cure lame back or pain in the side or chest in twentyfour hours. It is the most valuable, however, for rheumatism. Persons afflicted with this disease will be delighted with the prompt relief from pain which it affords, and it can be depended upon to effect a complete cure. For sale by A. C. Ireland, jr.

BANSHEE.

An aged desolation, She sits by old Shannon's flowing. A mother of many children, Of children extled and dead. In her home, with bent head, homeless, Clasping her knee, she sits, Keening, keening!

And at her keene the fairy grass Trembles on dun and barrow, Around the foot of her ancient crosses The grave grass shakes and the nettle swings In haunted glens the meadow sweet Flings to the night wind Her mystic mournful perfume. The sad spearmint by holy wells Breathes melancholy balm.

DEFENSE OF DAMLI.

It was sultry in the smoking room For one thing the weather was hot, for another, the commodore had just finished a yarn. Markham always maintained that the atmosphere became sulphurous after the commodore had recounted a personal reminiscence, but then he was given to exaggeration. Still we felt grateful that the story had passed off without the intervention of a thunderbolt and sat gasping relief and credulity. Then Mildmay, from sheer nervousness, I believe, not from any desire for a recurrence of the Ananias episode, stirred up the colonel. The colonel was sitting behind a big cheroot, evidently incubating a kettle wherein to cook the commodore's cabbage.

"Wonderful escape that, sir!" said

Mildmay, addressing the colonel. "Yes, sir. We in the sorvice in the old days, before it became a school for step dancing and circus riding, used to have experiences which the country never heard of. Adventures were common as bilberries, sir, in those days. Gad, sir, a British soldier in those days thought no more of walking 1,000 miles through the enemy's country than you do of step dancing round the park.

"Probably, sir, you've never heard of the defense of Fort Damli? No, sir, I don't blame you, sir, if you have not heard of a feat of arms which preserved half a continent for her majesty, God bless her! We've all heard of suppressed dispatches and ingratitude in high places lest the feather bed step dancers should be replaced by men.

"It was in—never mind the date, sir, and never mind the place. If I mentioned them, you would recall the episode, and it is not for me to boast by telling the full extent of the services it was my good fortune to render this country.

"A foreign power (no, sir, I will mention no name—damme, sir! I hope I know my duty better than to rekindle international complications) had stirred up the niggers against us. I was in command of Fort Damli, sir, at that time, with a handful of men—a mere handful -but men, sir, such as your dancing schools do not turn out nowadays. "Fort Damli is built on a promontors running out into the sea and is only get-at-able from one side. The niggers had massed all their forces in the plain in front of the fort. Twenty thousand of them, sir-or rather, as I wish to guard against exaggeration, I will say that I counted 19,863—a-swarming over the plain thick as cheese mites in a Stilton.

"I had 93 men all told, including a one eyed drummer boy, but we laughed at them, sir. Whenever the niggers came at the fort, we loaded our big guns with broken bottles, bedsteads, war office regulations, which was about the only thing they had supplied us with from home, and mowed them down by the dozens. When they reached the walls my boys, giving them cold pig, took tea with the niggers "I used to sit on the powder magazine, smoking a cheroot, as comfortably as I'm doing now. Gad, sir, how it all comes back to me! That little devil of a drummer used to nip out after the fight and mend his drum with niggers' skins. After about a fortnight of it we had the niggers piled up three deep facing the fort.

"Well, we had held that fort for seven weeks-no, damme, let's be accurate, for 48 days-and we looked like holding it for seven years, or until there wasn't a nigger left to come on, when one afternoon, it was about half past 4 on Feb. 21—I'm not likely to forget that date in a hurry—Lieutenant Simpkins of the Bombardiers, my subaltern, came to me and said: 'It's all up, sir. We haven't a round of ammunition left, and the niggers are preparing for a gen-eral assault tonight.' He was a brave man, was Simpkins—fell afterward at Seringapatam, cut clean in half by a cannon ball-but he looked a bit scared

"'Is that all?' I said offhand. 'Then we shall have some fun with the bayo-net. I am surprised at you, sir, for re-porting such a trifle.' After this rebuke I turned away, when the little drummer almost ran into me in his excitement.

"'Captain,' said he, saluting-I was only a captain in those days—'three men-of-war reported in the bay.' I look-ed out to sea and saw, as plainly as I see you, sir, three frigates standing on the horizon, flying the—flying the flag of the foreign power which was aiding and abetting the niggers.

"Well, sir, I must admit that when I saw these ships and remembered that we had not a grain of powder in the whole blessed fort I admit, sir, that, for a moment, I felt at a loss. Another man, who was less anxious to keep to facts, might tell you, sir, that he never hesitated, but I, wishing to deal with things as they were, I confess I felt at a

"But only for a moment. Lieutenant Simpkins said, with a sort of grin, 'Now, sir, you had better surrender to the Fr—to the foreign power.' 'Sir,' I answered, drawing myself up, 'a Tomlinson dies, but never surrenders.' I beg your pardon? Yes, sir; quite right. By a perversion of history these words were attributed to Blucher at Sedan. But I hope, sir, you will allow that I ought to know when they were first uttered. Blucher may have adapted them.

for a moment-a breathing space-I felt that the game was indeed up. I sat down on one of the now useless 40 pounders to review the situation. As I meditated my eye fell on some coils of telegraph wire which Hudson of the survey department had brought into the fort before the outbreak of the disturbance, to connect us with the capital. As my glance fell upon it a thought flashed through my brain.

"'Saved!' I cried, leaping from the cannon. 'The captain's got 'em again,' remarked that devil's imp of a drummer boy. Without heeding this breach of discipline I sent for Hudson. In a few words I whispered my idea to him. He caught my idea at once. 'Captain,' he cried, 'you are a genius, a marvel, a'- However, it is not for me to repeat the compliments, perhaps not altogether undeserved, he paid my resource.

"With his help I wound the telegraph wire round two cannons, connecting every two guns with a spool of wire. In this way we connected eight guns on the land side of the fort and six commanding the bay. Then the wires from each gun were taken into the powder magazine, where Hudson had rigged up an infernal machine of his own devising.

"We had hardly completed our work when night fell. 'You are sure they haven't any muskets?' Hudson said to me before we separated for the night. 'Perfectly,' I answered. 'Only spears and knives.' 'Then it ought to be all right,' he murmured, 'but how about the ships?' 'Let's settle the niggers first, I replied. 'Sufficient for the day are the ructions thereof.'

"With these remarks he left me, and I sat in my powder magazine awaiting events. The hours crept by very slowly. I tingled with excitement, for I knew the next hour would determine our fate. At length in the pitchy darkness the drummer boy, with his only eye glowing in the blackness like a carbuncle. whispered softly, 'Captain, they're coming!' Still I waited.

"Then in the deathlike stillness a yell broke on the startled air. I knew the crucial moment had come, and I-I pressed a button. There was a whirring sound. Then all was quiet again until a cheer from my men rang out and I knew that all was well. Seizing my club I hurried out into the darkness. Everything was as dark as-as the war office -and the fort was deserted.

"Just outside the gate I stumbled across a body. I turned it over with my foot. It was a nigger in full warpaint and unarmed. Then I knew that my plan had succeeded. Hurrying forward, whither a dull thud, varied by an occasional groan, guided me, I found my gallant Bombardiers clubbing for dear life-for the bayonets and barrels of their muskets had been removed by my orders-among a scurrying crowd of "Well, sir, we banged and banged until we could no longer raise our arms. As day broke I ordered the drummer to beat to quarters. He was nowhere to be found. Shonting to my men, I bade them retire to the fort. Then the sun rose, and what a sight met our eyes Every cannon in the fort was studded with spears and knives as thick as a pudding is of plums, as close as a pinenshion is of pins.

"What had happened will be obvious to you, sir. By the telegraph wires and an electric battery in the powder maga zine I had turned all my cannons into electro magnets of 40 horsepower. Consequently as soon as the enemy were within range I turned on the current. Every steel weapon in the hands of the niggers simply whirled out of their grasp and stuck like horse leeches to my

"The absence of the drummer boy was soon explained. As, against my distinct orders, he had been wearing a hanger when I turned the current on, he flew against the nearest gun and stuck there as a C. O. does to a decoration. It took six men to haul him off. "Then, in the joy of victory, a sudden dread came upon me. How about the three men-of-war? The foreign power ought to have landed its myrmidons by this time. Scourged by my apprehensions, I hurried to the seaward battlements of the fort. There, in the gray dawn, a strange sight met my eyes.

"Nailed to the cruel rocks to the westward of Damli lay those three men-ofwar, hopeless wrecks, buffeted by the waves against the grinding crags. What had happened was simple enough. Damme, sir, it flashed across me in an instant. The force of my seaward magnets had been such that it had deranged the compasses of these vessels. Following their distorted guidance, they had run ashore on the reef westward of the "Even as I watched I saw a boat push off from the wrecked flagship. At once I donned the graceful uniform of my regiment, the Munchausen's Own, as the service fondly termed it, and drew up my gallant 98 in plateons to await our vanquished foe. A tall officer, of gallant bearing, his dripping uniform decorated with a star, stepped ashore.

"'Field marshal,' said he, bowing to me with a grace that left me no doubt that I was standing in the presence of a prince of blood royal, 'I have the honor to surrender to you my sword!'

"'Not field marshal,' I answered, accepting the sword as I marked the diamonds flashing in its hilt, 'only a captain of her majesty's loyal regiment of Munchausen's Own.' 'Ah,' said his highness, turning to his followers, 'what chance have we against a nation where such men are only captains?' Bowing low, he followed me, my prisoner, into the fort.

"That, sir, is the true history of the defense of Damli. The end is plain. After my victory they sent a general from home, who reaped its fruits, who was rewarded by a grateful country by sticking every condemned letter of the alphabet after his blighted name. But the nation has yet to learn to whose resource they owe the victory of Damli. You were pleased to observe, sir? Eh, sir? What, sir? Your obedient servant, sir. Waiter, two of the same, with a slice of lemon."—New Budget.

HE workman often eats his lunch on the same bench where he does his work. The office man snatches a few min-utes from his occu-pation and turns his desk into a dining-table. Neither gets the exercise he needs, neither takes the proper time for eating. It is small wonder that the digestion of both gets out of order.

Nature works as hard as she can, but there are some things she cannot stand. If a man gets some foreign substance into the works of his watch, he doesn't expect the watch to run until the impediment is removed. His own digestive system is a much more wonderful and delicate mechanism than that of his watch, and yet he neglicate it and abuses it. He lets it get out of lects it and abuses it. He lets it get out of order, and refuses to help it. In the end his neglect reacts with terrible force upon himself. The reaction comes on gradually, his neglect reacts with terrible force upon himself. The reaction comes on gradually, however, so that sometimes he scarcely suspects the cause.

The cause of nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is constipation—a condition so common that four people out of five take it as a matter of course. From this one cause come indigestion; disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys; biliousness, headaches, flatulence, heartburn, impurity of the blood and the serious complications that follow. To begin with, constipation is a little thing, and a little thing will cure it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated granules. They give to nature just the little help she needs. They are as gentle as they are efficient, and will perfectly cure the worst cases of constipation. There is nothing in the world like them, so there can be nothing "just as good."
